BURGULARS VISIT EAST END STORES

Midnight Marauders Break In Three Places, Obtain Loot and Leave No Clues

Burglars visited a number of places in the east end of town on Thursday night and appear to have gotten away with good hauls and without leaving clues.

The office of the mill of Will Parks was entered through a window. A fine, big desk was torn open and $7 or $8 in cash stolen. Mr. Parks does not know whether anything else was taken or not, but he missed the money as soon as he had opened the desk and noticed the way the robber effected entrance.

At the new store of Rollis Harris, out on Irvine street, a glass was broken in a window. The robber there got $8 or $10 in cash and a lot of groceries.

One of the biggest hauls of the night was made at the store of H. C. Brewer on Big Hill avenue. Mr. Brewer had his windows fortified with heavy screens, but a window was broken, and the bolt which held a screen in was unscrewed. It was then an easy matter to effect entrance. The marauder seemed determined to make Mr. Brewer pay him well for the trouble it had been to get inside, so he carried away a lot of shoes, dry goods and other things and cleaned out what change there was in the cash drawer.

At no place, so far as can be learned, was any clue left that might be used in trailing or tracking the thief or thieves.

Thief at Foxtown

Albert Clark, a well known farmer of the Foxtown section, reports a good set of harness missing from his stable. He went out to hitch up his horses in the morning and found that the harness had disappeared. He has no clue to the thief, it is understood. The harness was practically brand new.

BANDITS CLEAN OUT WINDY CITY JEWELER

Chicago, April 22.—Two armed bandits today entered the J. J. Reingold jewelry concern on the 15th floor of a downtown building and, after forcing the owner and a traveling salesman into the private office, escaped with cash and jewels valued by the owner at $200,000. The robbery took place in the Kesner building at Madison and Wabash streets on the edge of the Loop district. Reingold, who with the traveling man, was bound and gagged, said virtually his entire stock was taken.

Reingold's brother, Leo, also Reingold's clerk, were arrested after being questioned by the police.

FORMER MADISONIAN MISSING IN FAYETTE

A dispatch to the morning papers had this about a man who is said to have formerly lived in this county:

Lexington, Ky., April 22.—R. S. Todd left his home here, accompanied by his seven-year-old daughter, Leslie, July 20, 1920, to "take a walk." Today Mrs. Todd, the wife and mother, appeared to the police to help her find the girl. Todd, according to information given to police, was seen in Louisville January 3, by an acquaintance.

Police were told that after the disappearance, it was learned, that Todd had purchased a quantity of clothing for the child three days before the disappearance, saying he would call for the garments in a day or two. He called for the clothing the day he left, it is said. The family formerly lived in Madison county.

PRODUCE MAN KILLS ANOTHER AND SELF

Campbellsville, Ky., April 22.—Josh Reuben Durlam, 55, vice president of the S. H. Grinstead Company, the largest poultry house here, shot and instantly killed Norman Hobson, 48, manager of the concern, this forenoon and then shot and killed himself with the same shotgun. Dave Thurman, the only eye witness, said Hobson was reading a letter in front of the store when Durlam came out with the gun. He fired one load into Hobson's neck and then ran upstairs and fired the other barrel into his own breast. Durlam is believed to have lost his mind. He had been manager for many years of the Grinstead house, but after the recent consolidation with the McKinley house was cut off as a salaried employee. It is believed that he held Hobson responsible.

Negro Sheriff Forgiven

To Hang Is Reprieved
Shreveport, La., April 22.—The death sentence of Lonnie Eaton, the negro sheriff of Ousichta parish forgot about when the day set for Eaton's hanging came around last month, has been commuted by the State Board of Pardons to life imprisonment, according to reports received here today from Baton Rouge. The board considered the negro's case there yesterday.

Eaton was convicted of murder several months ago, and was brought from Ousichta parish to Caddo parish jail for safekeeping. Gov. Parker set the date for the hanging, but the sheriff forgot all about it until the legal date had passed. As he afterward wrote to Gov. Parker, he was so busy with other affairs that he forgot the day that he was to hang Eaton.

TWO FAST GAMES IN CHURCH LEAGUE

Second Christians Nose Out Presbyterians and Calvary Baptists Beat Methodists

How They Stand

Games Played	Won	Lost	Pct.
Second Christians	2	0	1.000
First Pres	1	1	.500
First Christians	1	1	.500
Calvary Baptists	1	1	.500
First Baptists	1	1	.500
Methodist	0	2	.000

In what many fans say was the most exciting and interesting game yet played in the Richmond Church League, the Second Christians church team of Capt. Bob Maupin, nosed out the First Presbyterians by a score of 9 to 8 in the first of a double-header Thursday afternoon. Then the East End of town made it unanimous when the Calvary Baptists beat the Methodists by a score of 15 to 11.

By playing off these two games President Elmer Deatherage has his schedule caught up with, and is ready to go ahead with the program next week. It is probable that before the first game is played next week, something will be done about arranging for games with Mike Enright's Catholic church team, which is said to be ready for the call of time.

Not until Frank Chase had caught a long fly from Bob Maupin's bat in deep center in the last inning was the first game decided. And the Presbyterians had a man on third ready to come in and tie the score, too, if only given a chance. It was a real classy ball game, featured by hard hitting, fast fielding and all round good playing. Both Arnold Hanger and Leonard Isaacs pitched good ball. But Manager Maupin replaced the latter with his star twirler Charley Rogers in the last inning, and the latter going in without much warming up was touched up freely by the Presbyterians, who came near snatching the game from the fire then and there.

The Presbyterians uncovered a good player in Hutchins, who covered first base in the absence of Charley Keith at the K. E. A. in Louisville. Hutchins is a government vocational student at the Normal. He is a hero of the world war. While on duty in an observation post, a Hun high-explosive shell struck near him, nicked out three ribs, carved him up at various points and amputated all his fingers except a couple on each hand. He has made a good recovery, however and having been an old league ball player, plays the game just about as good as ever. He showed 'em all how to run bases once or twice, too. Just how the Normal nine has overlooked him is a mystery to those who saw him work, for he knows base ball and how it is played.

George Ginter, of College Hill, was assigned as umpire to the first game and pleased everyone with his work. Stone Norman was the other umpire used by President Deatherage, whose arbiters are giving much general satisfaction at all times.

In the second game, it looked at first like the Calvary Baptists were going to make a runaway of the game. Prewitt Willoughby one of the old-timers, who are trying "to come back" started the twirling, but the heavy hitters got to him in the second inning and piled up 10 runs. Then Stone went to the mound and stopped the Calvary boys completely, and the game began to get interesting. As it was late, only five

GANFIELD PREACHES REAL AMERICANISM

Declares There is No Place in Our Schools for Teachers Who Are Bolsheviks

(By Associated Press)

Louisville, Ky., April 22.—There is no place in the ranks of teachers in American schools for the person who believes in destructive revolution as a means of bringing about social reforms, Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Centre College, told the Kentucky Educational Association in an address here today. Nothing short of 100 per cent American program will satisfy the obligation resting on American schools, he said, urging the placing of "safe and sane" men and women in teaching positions.

Dr. Ganfield spoke on the subject: "How Many Shall We Educate?"

"The nation that does not educate," he said, "must abdicate. The destiny of the nation lies in the school room of today." He asserted that every boy and girl in the country must be given sufficient education to enable them to wisely discharge the duties of citizenship.

In answering the question "How many shall we educate?" he asserted that "Education is for Citizenship," and for "Leadership," and that the only answer is "Universal Education." "Democracy can be considered safe only when it rests upon a high degree of mental likemindedness," he said. "Progress in the solution of problems may arise from the clash of human minds, but no nation, and no social organization can be content to have the mind of the child and youth set in an anti-social direction by the influence and the instruction of the classroom. Nothing short of a 100 per cent American program will satisfy the obligation resting on our American schools. This does not mean merely a frank avowal of the rights of government and a recognition of lawfully chosen rulers. No citizen can safely boast his cherished devotion to the flag and blaze forth his disloyalty to the other fundamental social institutions.

"I know no better method of counter-acting radicalism than to put safe and sane men and women into teaching positions. The fate of the future rests with the moulders of the nation's ideals. Our system has no place for any teacher whose personal convictions make it impossible for him to be a sympathetic exponent of the cherished ideals and institutions of our nation's life, which, although subject to modification, should be to our children institutions worthy of reverence and respect, to be modified, not by chaotic and destructive revolutions such as we find exemplified in the Bolshevik movement of Europe, but by the gradual and orderly changes that have always been characteristic of the development of Anglo-Saxon institutions. Teachers who cannot assent to this general point of view are, in my opinion, ineligible as a matter of law and undesirable as a matter of self-respect, to contract with the Board of Education to carry out the ideals to which the state law and by-laws give expression."

Asking whether in education for leadership colleges should be limited in the number of things they shall teach, should higher education be provided for all who finish secondary schools; can a wise method of selection be adopted; should students be free to be eliminated by rigid scholastic tests; can diplomas be denied to moral delinquents, and the man who breaks the decalogue and is granted to the one who would overthrow the fundamental institutions of National Life, Dr. Ganfield said.

"Why should we solicit philanthropic Americans to endow professorships or tax patriotic citizens to maintain anti-American instructors and teachers to train other men and women for place and power of leadership in these, in turn, go out to destroy and not to save, to tear down and not to build.

"I am well aware that I have asked these questions in a form which has implied my answer, I am aware that we touch here the question of academic freedom.

But liberty, even academic liberty, is not license and freedom connotes responsibility. Every institution must have its standards and no institution has any right to maintain standards or threaten our American social institutions. No institution is obliged to tolerate the presence of any instructor who must either repress or dissimulate his beliefs, and no instructor of youth should remain in a position where the performance of his professional duties must be characterized by painful repression or adroit dissimulation.

"America is for Americans and American education must contribute to the security of all fundamental American institutions. We must therefore give to every boy and girl a sufficient number of young men and women of good intellect, strong character and high ideals, to fill places of leadership. We must maintain the American school and college for the American social order. We cannot appeal to the philanthropy of the rich, or tax the poor, to provide blind or alien leaders to lead us into national peril and social ruin."

WOMEN DEMAND K. E. A. RECOGNITION

Louisville, April 22.—Women of the Kentucky Educational Association threatened to revolt today, even to seceding and forming a separate association, if a woman president is not elected and at least two women chosen on the board of directors.

"Kentucky school women are being ignored and obscured," declared Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart of Frankfort, speaking at the annual breakfast of the Kentucky Council of Administrative Women in the Hotel Henry Watterson this morning. "In the Kentucky Educational Association not an officer or member of the two most important committees, Resolutions and Legislative, is a woman."

"We have not had a woman president since 1912, when I was elected. The K. E. A. has gone from bad to worse in its policy of eliminating women and is conspicuous for the absence of women in its councils. The K. E. A. is composed two-thirds of women, but they make up the audience and have no power. I do not advocate rebellion, but demand equality. We have the vote and should use it. California and Arkansas women formed separate associations, and we can if necessary."

A resolution presented by Miss M. J. A. superintendent of Shelby county schools, asking equal representation for women on all K. E. A. boards, was adopted.

Miss Margaret McCullings, of Fayette county, was elected president, Miss Mamie Moss, of Horse Cave, vice president, and Miss Elizabeth Breckinridge, of Louisville, secretary of the council.

Notified of the action of the Council of Administrative Women, James H. Risley, president of the K. E. A., said: "I have no objection to women serving in any official capacity, and I want to see the persons elected who will work out the administration of the organization regardless of sex."

BEREA INSTRUCTORS- STUDENTS BANQUET

The Louisville Club of Berea College Students gave a banquet at the Hotel Henry Watterson, in Louisville, Wednesday night to members of the faculty and former students who are attending the K. E. A. M. E. Vaughn, secretary of Berea College, was toastmaster. The principal speaker was Dr. George D. Strayer, Teachers' College, Columbia University. Others who spoke were R. C. Miller, University of Kentucky; Prof. J. W. Gulian, Normal department; Dr. E. A. Thompson, president of Lincoln Institute and member of the board of directors of Berea College, and W. L. Clouse, H. Willoughby.

FINED $5 UNDER STOCK LAW DECREE

Case From Biggerstaff Precinct Is Hard Fought in County Court and Appealed

D. Shifflett, of the Biggerstaff section, was fined $5 and costs on a charge of violating the stock law by Judge W. K. Price in county court Friday morning. This was a result of a very hard fought stock law election held in that precinct last November, when advocates of prevention of stock running at large won by a vote of 128 to 121. Mr. Shifflett allowed his milk cow to graze along the public highway, and a number of well known farmers of that section preferred charges against him.

Attorneys J. C. Chenault and John Noland, representing Shifflett, contended that the provisions of the law regarding stock elections had not been complied with inasmuch as the county court order, setting forth the result of the election, etc., had not been spread upon the order book of county court. Judge Price, however, explained that the county clerk had been unable to get a number of the required books from the state printers and that many orders had been delayed in that way. Papers showed the order had been duly signed, and filed with the clerk for that purpose, however, and Attorney A. R. Burnam, representing Mr. Burnam and others who prosecuted the suit, contended that was ample compliance with the law.

Attorneys for Shifflett announced that they would appeal the case to the circuit court, to try out the matter thoroughly. There was a large gathering in court for this trial, as interest is intense in that section over the stock at large question.

Prehistoric Elephant

(By Associated Press)
Paris, April 22.—Parts of the fossilized remains of a prehistoric elephant, said by experts to be many thousands of years old have been found in the clay of a tile works at Chagny, near Chalons-sur-Saone. This is believed to be the first instance in which such remains have been found in Europe. It is thought possible that when the search is concluded the skeleton will be fairly complete.
